Our deepest fear is not that we are inadequate.
Our deepest fear is that we are powerful beyond measure.
It is our light, not our darkness that most frightens us.

We ask ourselves, who am I to be brilliant, gorgeous, talented, fabulous?
Actually, who are you not to be? You are a child of God.
Your playing small does not serve the world.
There is nothing enlightened about shrinking
so that other people won't feel insecure around you.

We are all meant to shine, as children do.
We were born to make manifest the glory of God that is within us.
It is not just in some of us; it is in everyone.
And as we let our own light shine, we unconsciously give other people permission to do the same.

As we are liberated from our own fear,
our presence automatically liberates others.

~ Marianne Williamson from A Return To Love

Note: Marianne Williamson was born in this Venus Overtone as she is turning 64 in 2016. Plus, Marianne wrote her book A Return To Love in her age 40 Venus Return clearly inspired by this expression of the Divine Feminine as indicated in the above quote. To find out more about other Women Leaders born in this Venus Cycle and their accomplishments during their Venus returns be sure to check out this Article by Tami Brunk.

The Venus Cycle as experienced from here on Earth and the mythic stories connected to this cycle, especially the story of Inanna/Ishtar have encoded with them the keys to personal and planetary ascension. This is because Venus is a mirror for the Earth and also the sister planet to Earth. Find out why HERE.
The next Venus Cycle is from August 22, 2015 to March 31, 2017 beginning with Venus Rising as a Morning Star, visible before sunrise. This 584 day Synodic cycle (about 19 months) is taking place in the archetypal realm of Leo exploring the mysteries of sovereignty as it relates to healthy self-love.

Defining Sovereign
According to Webster’s Dictionary the root word of Sovereignty comes from Old French “soverain” - sovereign, lord, ruler, superior, master, highest, supreme, chief. An older more obsolete definition is “supreme excellence or an example of it.”

Other definitions have to do with freedom from external control - autonomy. It is also thought to have origins in the Latin word superanus and Spanish soberano meaning super or the Italian sovranono meaning excellence, superiority, remedies or medicines that are potent in a high degree.

Derivatives of Latin super include, SOPRANO, SOUBRETTE, SOVEREIGN, dozens of SUPER- words including SUPERNAL, SUPRA (a prefix meaning “above, over” (supraorbital) or “beyond the limits of, outside of”), SUPERNATURAL, SUPREMACY, SUPREME, SUPREMO.

Interestingly, sovereign is also the name for a gold coin that later became the English pound.

Sovereignty is related to having the right of governance, whether it is through the divine right of kings or being autonomous in governing personal self, a country, state or territory. There are esoteric and spiritual teachings that suggest we all have a right to personal sovereignty as the divine right of every individual.

Why the Opening Quote is a Summary of Leo
The opening quote from Marianne Williamson’s book A Return To Love beautifully sums up the essence of Healthy Leo, reminding us we each have a divine right to shine our light - making manifest the glory of the divine that is within us. Over the next year and a half we will collectively have an opportunity to discover everything within ourselves that is NOT aligned with this intent for the purpose of transforming it.

This transformational process is about reclaiming our sovereignty by returning to love - fully and freely shining the divine light of who we are. From Leo’s perspective this is its own reward, though it does have the added benefit of inspiring others, giving them permission to love who they are as well. This has the effect of increasing the love light shining in each individual and in turn exponentially increases the love light shining in our world.

It is important to consider that from the Leo archetypal perspective shining the light of the divine self is not about being in service to others as the primary motivation for living from self-love and personal sovereignty. It may appear to have that effect; however that is the result of how light shines wherever it is. The light of the Sun doesn’t shine on just a few. It shines on everyone. When our personal light is shining it is also shining on everyone and when this vibrant, healthy, radiant love light shines it uplifts everyone around us.
Leo is an Expression of The Solar Feminine

This is the gift of Venus in Leo as the Solar Feminine Goddess whose awareness of her divinity and the light she naturally brings allows her to love herself in genuine healthy ways. Not to rule over others, or to be better than everyone else, but rather to simply be the shining light of radiant self-love that has the added benefit of inspiring others to experience their own radiance and glory.

How To Make the Most of this Venus Journey

The Venus journey as described by the mythic telling of Inanna, begins with her descent into the underworld to face her fears and all the ways she does NOT love herself. It is a powerful initiation of death and rebirth, dying to who she believes herself to be so she can be reborn to who she truly is. This requires her to release all the ways she does not truly love herself and all the ways she has forgotten how to shine the light of her divine essence.

This is a journey of surrender and trust in the process that facilitates the opportunity to rise again – so that the sacred feminine can again ascend into her rightful place as Radiant and Shining Divine Sovereign Queen.

For Men this journey connects to the divine feminine essence within seeking greater awareness and connection with you.

For women this journey is about reclaiming this powerful expression of the Divine Solar Feminine that has been far too long suppressed or repressed.

For both men and women this is the time to return to the power of love to heal, inspire and transform.

Some questions that may be helpful to help facilitate the intent of this time over the next few months are:

- What would it take for me to truly, whole-heartedly love myself on every level of my life?
- What would it take for me to remember, know and live my divinity?
- What would it take for me to live and express healthy radical, radiant self-love?
- How do I open my heart to the expressions of pure love within me?
- How do I consciously co-create fully living in, and enjoying, the next Golden Age?
- How do I manifest these divine light codes in my everyday reality so that I am showing up and acting in ways that are most beneficial and supportive to me and all life?

As we live into the answers we raise our personal and collective frequencies to support our expanding awareness and conscious expression of our true divine nature. Again it helps to remember that all of the beliefs and patterns not in alignment with this intent will come up for clearing and transformation.

During the clearing process it can feel challenging to note any progress around increasing healthy self-love. It may help to remember to continually surrender to what is unfolding, and to trust your inner guidance. Act as if you love yourself no matter what, by taking care of you in loving ways. This includes healthy eating, exercise, meditation, yoga, spending time in nature, engaging in fun, creative pursuits that inspire your passion, and spending time with people you love who are fun, loving, and creative.
A Favorite Technique for Practicing Self-Love is to make a self-love list, things you love about yourself and to also find out what others love about you. Write them down, keep adding to the list over time and be sure to read the list out loud every day. Here are some ideas to get you started.

What I Love About Myself!

- I love myself for creating a magical life that gets more magical all the time.
- I love remembering to take note of the progress I have made over the years including being more forgiving of myself and others, accepting of myself and others, and understanding of myself and others.
- I love the way I have finally created a wonderful, fun, fulfilling and loving primary relationship.
- I love that I have really kind and caring friends who love me and we support each other.
- I love how my innate nature is to operate from kindness and caring and that I now extend that toward myself.
- I love the creative ideas I have all the time and I implement them in fun and magical ways.
- I love that I can see solutions on how to do things more effectively and efficiently giving me more time to be creative and have fun.

What Others Love About Me! (This list was given to me by my beloved husband Peter Klein)

- I love how you shine so brightly with so much Joy and Love
- I love how easy it is to talk with you
- I love how you have endless great ideas
- I love your ability to provide lightening fast responses
- I love how you relentlessly pursue and delight in your work in the world
- I love how you believe in magic and create magical moments with me every day
- I love how you grow younger, more beautiful, and happier each day

Please feel free to use the above lists to inspire your list or even use these as they are - if they feel true for you, or you want them to feel true for you. When creating these lists you can act as if by writing them down even if you... aren't don't feel you are quite there YET. Note that YET is the operative word, because when we begin claiming these ways of loving ourselves they are already becoming part of our reality.

If you feel inspired please share what you love about yourself in the comments section below and lets help build our self love lists by inspiring each other!

September 2015 Sky Highlights

Mercury is low (or in bright twilight) in the WSW for the first half of September just above the western horizon reaching greatest elongation of 27° from the Sun on September 4 though in the Northern Hemisphere Mercury is low on the horizon so difficult to see. Mercury is always in the evening sky before stationing retrograde an event happening on September 17.

Venus is bright with Jupiter and Mars in the morning sky. Regulus is between Jupiter and Mars.

Venus a very bright morning star since August 22 is climbing higher in the morning sky. Venus reaches its greatest magnitude of -4.8 on the mornings of September 14 – 24 and is rising about two hours before the Sun as September begins and about 3 1/2 hours before the Sun by the end of September.

Mars is to the lower left of Venus as September begins having become a morning star several days before Venus. Mars passes close to Regulus just after the Equinox on the 24th and 25th passing very near Venus and Jupiter.

Mars (+1.8 magnitude) is within 1° of Regulus (+1.3 magnitude) in the morning sky on the 24th and 25th when the both are equidistant from Venus and Jupiter. This close gathering accentuates the orange gold appearance of Mars and the blue white appearance of Regulus.

Mars and Venus are joined in sacred union all this month and next until their next exact conjunction on November 2. Mars is slightly higher than Venus as September begins but month’s end Venus is rising before Mars.
Jupiter rises due east in the morning sky after Mars and Venus becoming they are visible about 20° to the lower left of Venus.

Saturn is moving back into the Scorpion moving closer to the western horizon. At sunset Saturn sets about 3.5 hours after the Sun as September begins and 2.5 hours after sunset as the month ends. Saturn is approaching the eye of the Scorpion moving to align with Dschubba (also known as the eye of the dragon) again – exact in October. Saturn is also less than 20° above the horizon for those at mid northern latitudes as September begins and grows dimmer as the month progresses from a +0.5 to a +0.6 magnitude.

Uranus is being occulted twice this month and may be visible during the time of the Total Lunar Eclipse on September 27. Though in the seasonal sign of Aries Uranus is located in the constellation of the fish.

Neptune reached opposition to the Sun on August 31 so is technically visible through a telescope all night long. This eight magnitude planet is only visible in a telescope and is currently located in the constellation of the water bear though in the seasonal sign of Pisces.

Jupiter is -1.7 magnitude and is the last planet to rise in the morning sky coming up about a half hour before sunset on September 1 and then about two hours before the Sun on September 30. Visible in the constellation of the Lion Jupiter is in the seasonal sign of Virgo as of August 11. Jupiter forms a beautiful curve line with Mars Regulus and Venus above it at the end of September.

There is a Total Lunar Eclipse on September 27 in the evening hours visible in the Americas.

A partial new Moon eclipse is visible in parts of South Africa and Antarctica on September 13. The Equinox is exact at 1:21 am PDT and 4:21 AM EDT on September 23.

The total lunar eclipse is happening on the evening of Sunday, September 27 or the morning of September 28 in European time zones. This is the harvest Full Moon as well as the biggest Moon of the year as it is exactly Full and Eclipted 59 minutes after its Perigee or closest approach to the Earth.

2015 September Celestial Timings by Cayelin K Castell
cayelincastell.com
The slender waning crescent Moon passes between Venus and Mars on the morning of the September 10. The next day the Moon is to the right of Regulus and appears even thinner. Early morning before sunrise on the 12th a tiny sliver of the waning crescent Moon may be visible near Jupiter and the waxing crescent is at the upper right of Saturn just after sunset on the 18th.

Biggest Eclipse of a Life Time

This September Total Lunar Eclipse is the last of the tetrad or series of 4 Total Lunar Eclipses and totality lasts for an hour and 12 minutes.

The East Coast of North America bears witness to every stage of the eclipse (weather permitting) from beginning to end from twilight to full night.

The Moon will rise partially eclipsed on the west coast and the Moon rises well above the eastern horizon before totality begins.

According to Sky and Telescope Magazine this is an unusual eclipse as it is the biggest eclipsed Moon you may ever see in your lifetime because Perigee (when the Moon is closest to the Earth so biggest in appearance) is occurring 59 minutes before the mid-eclipse.

Another note of interest is on October 8, 2014 the Moon was within 1° of Uranus. 11 days earlier this year on the September 27 the Total Lunar Eclipse is within 15° to the east of Uranus. May visible to the naked eye, but at 5.7 magnitude you need to know exactly where to look. Some fun facts are that Uranus is 15 times larger than the Moon but also 8000 times further away and why it is not so easy to see without binoculars or a telescope.

If you get a chance to see this Eclipse DO IT! As the next Total Lunar Eclipse doesn't happen until January 31 of 2018 and will be visible in the eastern hemisphere and the Westside of North America. The next tetrad of four total lunar eclipses won't begin until April 25, 2032.

So NOT only is this the biggest Total Lunar Eclipse you may ever see, it is also the last of the Tetrad and Uranus is nearby.

As mentioned in April there are five stages in a Total Lunar Eclipse.

A total Lunar Eclipse occurs over 3 to 5 hours and has five distinct stages worth noting. The first stage begins with Penumbral Eclipse when the Earth’s shadow causes the Moon’s outer edges to pale. This shading is so weak it is hard to see much until the Moon is about halfway across the penumbra. The shading becomes stronger as the Earth’s shadow moves to cover the Moon.

The second stage is the Partial Eclipse and is more dramatic as the dark shading grows and because it receives no direct sunlight. Eventually only a bright arch remains outside the umbra of the Moon and often there is a reddish glow already appearing.
The third stage is the Total Eclipse when the Moon is Blood Red. In this April Eclipse totality is lasting just a few minutes. The US Naval Observatory Astronomical Almanac lists totality as lasting 12.3 minutes while The 50 Year Canon of Lunar Eclipses by Fred Espenak lists this eclipse as lasting 8.6 minutes, hence the average of these two times is about 10 minutes.

The reason for the red Moon at a Total Lunar Eclipse is due to how sunlight is bent in the Earth's atmosphere reflecting all the sunrises and sunsets that ring our world at any given moment. The quality of the air where you are effects how you see a Lunar Eclipse, it might dark red, ashen grey, or occasionally almost black. Plus, blue light refracted through, and tinted by, Earth's ozone can also affect the color of the eclipsed Moon.

Once totality is complete the events replay in reverse order with the edges of the Moon glowing as the Sun again reflects on that part of the Moon. This begins stage four or the return to a Partial Eclipse and then by stage 5 the Moon is completely relit by the Sun. This means we visually experience all the phases of the Moon that generally take 29.5 days to complete condensed into about 3 or 4 hours. This suggests that whatever we are holding as intention at this time is speeded up or accelerated in its manifestation. Whatever is NOT in alignment with the intent will be evident very quickly. (See monthly audios and this YouTube)

For Fun Scientific Facts about Magical Moonlight from Sky and Telescope Magazine.
The Full Moon is only 400,000 times dimmer than the Sun, not millions of times as many might think. White paper seen in moonlight is about to 2000 times darker than black velvet seen in sunlight. The light of the Full Moon is about 33,000 times brighter than Sirius and is 2000 times brighter than Venus at her brightest, and Venus is reaching that this month. Full Moon light is also 1000 times brighter than the combined light of all the nighttime stars.

A first quarter moon is only 1/11th as bright as the Full Moon. The Last Quarter Moon is even dimmer than the First Quarter Moon due to how it is placed in the sky. Lunar light is half as bright as the Full Moon about 2.5 days before it reaches its full phase. This explains why observations of the stars and even extended deep sky objects seen in telescopes are not compromised by most phases of the Moon as one might expect.

Still prominent in the sky is the Summer Triangle (see image to the right) formed by Deneb (the tail of the Cygnus the Swan or Northern Cross) and Altair (the eye of the Eagle known as Aquila) and Vega (in the constellation of Lyra and the pole star 13,000 years ago).

Cygnus the Swan is also referred to as the Northern Cross and looks very much like a cross in the sky. Aquila, the Eagle is flying toward Cygnus though slightly to the side so they do not look like they will bump into each other but pass by one another. Delphinus the Dolphin (see orange circle in the star map) is to the East of Altair looking south and further east of there is the Great Square of Pegasus indicated by the orange arrow.

Daily September 2015 Celestial Timings

All times are Pacific Time unless otherwise noted

September 1, Tuesday. The Moon occults retrograde Uranus (19° Aries 58’) at 9:37 am in the first of two occultation's this month. (see September 28) This is the 14th occultation of the Moon over Uranus in a series that began in August of last year. There are four remaining occultations including one more this month with one in October, November, and December for a total of 18 in this series.

As I’ve shared in past Timings each occultation is exponentially more powerful than the last amping up the celestial energy that is increasing the vibrational energy of the Earth. It is possible that you are feeling intensity in your body and/or in your life as your physiology is adjusting to the new frequencies. The best strategy is to relax and go with the flow and trust all this is taking you where your soul most wants to go.
September 2, Wednesday. The Moon enters Taurus at 2:01 am activating the mysteries connected to living in the garden of earthly delight. This is more easily experienced and received when we are in a state of gratitude and appreciation. (see Sep 28)

Venus (-4.4 magnitude) is passing 8.7° SSW of Mars (1.8 magnitude) visible in the morning sky before sunrise continuing in their sacred marriage dance. See August 31 Celestial Timings archives and to learn more about this see this special webinar on the Venus and Mars Saga scroll down the page to find it.

September 3, Thursday. The waning Moon is visible approaching the Pleiades in the morning sky. The Moon is an amplifier and whenever it is in range of the Pleiades it is transmitting the light codes from this important star cluster, amplifying the information available directly into our DNA. This has the possibility of healing any distortions that may have become programmed into our DNA. (see Sep 28)

September 4, Friday. The Moon enters Gemini at 4:48 am passing 8.6° South of the Pleiades and will be visible beyond of the Pleiades tonight. The Moon in Gemini is transmitting the mysteries of playful spontaneity and imagination. A great mythic expression for Gemini is the imagery of Peter Pan, the youthful genius that never wanted to grow up, or lose his sense of magic. The next two and half days are a time for socializing, having fun and allowing our imaginations the freedom to run wild. After all our imagination is best primary magical tool for creating our reality!

Mercury (9° Libra) is reaching its greatest elongation in the evening sky 27.1° from the Sun. Mercury can get as far as 28° from the Sun, though sometimes only reaches 15° from the Sun. So this is one of the more extreme maximum elongations possible. This means Mercury is gathering information and insights for its return journey to the Sun during its retrograde this month. The Sun is the source of light life and life for our planet that includes information around conscious expressions of healthy relating through healthy partnership, including the partnerships we have with each other and with our planet.

September 5, Saturday. The Moon is occulting or passing 1.1° WNW of Aldebaran visible in the morning sky. This is the ninth time in this series of 49 occultations that will last until September 2018. The star Aldebaran marks the eye of the celestial Bull. This suggests this star has to do with what we see and how we perceive reality. Therefore this series of occultations has the power to expanded and transform our perception from the celestial bull’s-eye point of view.

Taking a step back to observe your reality from a cosmic perspective may be helpful. What limiting beliefs that you currently perceive as true in your reality - may not actually be a true assessment from a more expanded perspective?

Aldebaran (+0.9 magnitude) is the brightest star the Moon ever occults and this is the first in the series that will be visible in parts of North America. This occultation occurs with a Last Quarter Moon that rises around mid-night and lasts about an hour. That is why only certain part of the country will get to see the entire event.

The Sun (13° Virgo 04") is trine Pluto (13°Capricorn04') at 4:10 pm signaling the Still Point of Pluto as it prepares to station direct on September 24/25 depending on your Time Zone. Within the Still Point anything is possible, and when connected to Pluto in Capricorn it is about unwinding or dismantling experiences of reality that are disempowering to the true nature of who we truly are.

This is an especially important for anyone who has planets, angles, or nodes between 12.5° and 16° Capricorn, Cancer, Aries, and Libra as this is impacting you in a personal way.

September 6, Sunday. This would have been my Mother’s 82nd Birthday. Here is the remarkable story of her passing 17 years ago.

Venus (14° Leo 23’) is stationing direct at 1:29 am. This means Venus has finished her preparations for the descent and she has begun her journey into the underworld reaching the first gate in about 4 days from now. There is still time to join in the ceremonial Tele-class series for this new Venus Cycle. We have an amazing group already gathering and today is the last day to get the early registration special tuition rate. Tomorrow is our first tele-class. Details are here

The Moon is entering Cancer at 10:40 am located on the Galactic Cross near the Galactic edge of our galaxy. This means the next couple of days are a good time to make an extra conscious effort to nurture yourself and your family. Of course every day is a great day to practice this kind of nurturing, and sometimes we forget to make this a priority. May this reminder help you to create new healthy nurturing habits that you practice automatically every day.

Mercury (10° Libra 54’) is opposite retrograde Vesta (10°Aries54’) at 4:24 pm suggesting we may be receiving messages from the celestial High Priestess as she journeys through the Aries domain. This is the aspect of the priestess who is fiercely committed to a sacred worthy cause or mission. The message may be how to further a cause you are already involved in or perhaps to give you insights into a new cause or mission that is yours to do.

September 7, Monday. The Moon is visible in the morning sky traveling through the constellation of the Twins. I mentioned yesterday that the Moon entered the seasonal sign of Cancer. The waning Moon is in the early morning sky before sunrise clearly visible in the constellation of the Twins. However, yesterday the Moon was located in the place for the sunrises at the June solstice.

In the northern hemisphere this is when the days are longest and the nights are shortest. The opposite is true in the southern hemisphere. Remember the seasonal signs move through the constellations over time. The last time the Northern Hemisphere Summer Solstice Sun (Winter Solstice in the Southern Hemisphere) was located on the Galactic Cross at the Galactic Edge was about 26,000 years ago.

September 8, Tuesday. The Moon is entering Leo at 7:36 pm visible 11.6° South of Pollux in the morning sky. The brightest stars of the Twins, Castor and Pollux both mark the outer edge of the Sacred Hoop of stars. When the Moon enters Leo it has just exited the Sacred Hoop. The Moon in Leo is amplifying the mysteries of empowering ourselves through healthy self-love.

Mars (19° LEO 45') is trine Uranus (19° Aries 45’) suggesting that there may be unexpected events taking place now that support Mars’ journey to experience deeper self-love for the purpose of experiencing wholeness through healthy relating to self and others.

September 9, Wednesday. Mercury (13° Libra 02”) is square Pluto (13° Capricorn 02’) at 12:28 pm in the first of 3. The second one is Sep 24 and the third is Oct 22. Both Mercury and Pluto are in the degrees of the Grand Cross that took place in April 2014 and all three times Mercury and Pluto will be in the 13 degree range. This is a powerful activation furthering what was put into motion at that time. Find out more here in an interview I did back in March and HERE is a short 11 minute video on the Grand Cross.

The Moon is passing 5.5° SSW of the Beehive Cluster visible in the early morning sky. The Beehive cluster was an important star cluster to the ancients and was one of the first objects that Galileo studied with his telescope.

Astronomers call this open cluster M44 and it is one of the largest open star clusters in this area of the sky. Under dark moonless skies, there are more than 40 stars visible to the naked eye, usually seen as a cloudy patch, looking very much like a swarm of bees.

The best way to find this cluster is to first locate the twin stars Pollux and Castor. Then look left or to the east and locate Regulus at the base of the backward question mark. The Beehive Cluster lies somewhere between Pollux and Regulus and is spread about a degree and half across the sky meaning the light from these stars spreads over an area bigger than three full Moons. Binoculars are a big help in seeing it when the Moon or a bright planet is there. The waning crescent Moon helps you locate it.

September 10, Thursday. The Moon is passing 2.7° North of Venus (14° LEO 41’) 12:24 am. This marks the passage of Venus or Inanna through the first to gate into the underworld associated with the seven chakras. This is where she gives her crown symbolizing her connection to spirit. This means she is choosing to surrender fully to this powerful initiation and descent process. If you're turning a multiple of eight (16, 24, 32, 40, 48, 56, 64, 72, 80, 88, or 96) between August 22, 2015 and March 31, 2017 you are in a personal Venus return and this is a very important initiatory time for you. You can still join the tele-class series to be a part of this ceremonial journey.
The Moon is also passing 4.6° SSW of Mars at 12:59 pm (21° Leo 01'). Both Venus and Mars are visible in the morning sky near the waning Moon. This is further activating of the sacred marriage between Venus and Mars for the divine feminine and divine masculine. Venus and Mars remain close together this entire month, all of October and into November with another exact conjunction at the beginning of November.

This is the perfect time (above and below) to attend the sacred marriage intensive offered by the Shamanic Astrology Mystery School October 7-11, 2015 near Tucson, Arizona. This is our most popular course with our unique approach to the sacred marriage as well as partnership and relationship intent for the current life that is not found in any other system of astrology. Details are HERE.

September 11, Friday. The Moon enters Virgo at 6:55 am passing 3.2° SSW of Regulus. The Moon is passing 3.2° SSW of Jupiter within about 12° of the Sun at 8:45 pm. This means Jupiter and the Moon may be visible in the morning sky if you have a low horizon. This triune council of Moon, Jupiter and Regulus expands and transmits the mysteries that come from the heart star the Lion. This is a good time to tune into your own heart knowing.

This heart knowing is different than what may occur to you through the process of logic and reason. Heart knowing comes from a place outside or beyond our everyday reality. It is interesting to note that scientists have discovered our heart has more neurons that our brains. That means when we access our heart knowing we are tapping into something more powerful than what our thinking mind can provide.

The Sun (19° Virgo 13’) is opposite retrograde Chiron (19° Pisces 13’) at 12 pm. This marks the center point of the Chiron retrograde and acts as a Full Moon point illuminating possibilities around further heart healing. This is intended to be an opportunity to turn any heart wounding we have into our medicine, or strength, or gifts. If you have already done a great deal of healing work this helps to take it to another octave.

This activation is most experienced by those who have personal planets, angles or nodes between 13° to 22° of Pisces, Virgo, Gemini, and Sagittarius.

September 12, Saturday. The partial Solar eclipse and Virgo New Moon (20° Virgo 10’) is exact at 11:41 pm. This New Moon Partial Eclipse opens the eclipse window that will end with the Total Full Moon Lunar Eclipse on September 27. Eclipse windows are often experienced as time out of time. It may even be possible to reset time to align more fully with our divine design as it expresses through us. (See Sep 15)

September 13, Sunday. The Moon enters Libra at 7:41 pm and passes the North Node (00 Libra 57) at 9:37 pm. When the North node reaches 0° Libra it is not only at the September Equinox point aligned with the North Galactic pole but it also the center point of the Inner Lunar Standstill an event that only happens every 18.6 years. Join this tele-class to learn more about this rare Lunar Standstill and the upcoming Lunar Eclipse (scroll down the page to find the class details).
It is the nodes of the Moon that spark the eclipses. Whenever the Sun, the Moon and the Earth line up on the nodal axis we have an eclipse. In the case of a solar eclipse the Moon is moving between the Earth and the Sun. In the case of a lunar eclipse, the Earth is moving between the Sun and the Moon and the shadow of the earth is visible on the face of Moon.

The North Node is hanging out near the 0° for the entire month of September, October, and most of November.

September 14, Monday. Rosh Hashanah the first day of the Jewish New Year 5775 - a time for leaving old limitations behind, starting the new year with a clean slate. This holy day actually begins at sunset the day before with the sitting of the tiny crescent New Moon closest to the Autumnal Equinox. This is remnant of a calendar that was connected to the actual solar and lunar cycles, so the Jewish New Year day was not fixed in the Calendar but shifted with the Lunar Cycle closest to the September Equinox.

September 15, Tuesday. The waxing Moon is conjunct Mercury (15° Libra 39") passing 5.1° NNE at 3:34 am visible beyond Mercury in the evening sky. This reminds us we too must communicate what we know to be true - allowing our soul’s essence to shine. Creation begins with the formation of thoughts, and then we give the breath of life to those thoughts with our words. So this timing is a reminder to also seek discernment in our thoughts and speech because what we say over and over becomes a part of our personal creation.

September 16, Wednesday. The Moon is passing 4.1° NNE of Spica early in the day and is visible in the evening sky before entering Scorpio at 8:43 am. This means the Moon will be visible beyond Spica after the Sun sets tonight. Spica is in the constellation of the Virgin Priestess (a.k.a Virgo) and both Spica and the constellation have myths and images of the divine feminine linked with them.

The Greeks and Romans saw this constellation as the Great Mother Goddess Cybele with her lion-drawn chariot symbolizing the Lion constellation sitting next to the Virgin Priestess.

Cybele, like many goddesses, had several incarnations or manifestations. Her celebrations included drumming, dancing, singing, and chanting, often all night long. The Greek Goddess Astrea also has associations with the Virgin Priestess constellation depicted in Tarot as the Justice Card, holding the Scales of Justice symbolizing the constellation on her other side. Spica marks the hand of the Virgin Priestess and sometimes is shown as an ear of corn or wheat that she holds in her hand. Other images show
Spica as the star that marks where the Virgin Priestess or Goddess holds the Scales in her hand. In Egyptian myth the constellations of the Virgin Priestess and the Scales were described as the Goddess Maat who used the scales to weigh the heart of the dead against her feather to determine the future path of the one who died.

Arcturus in the constellation of Boötes (a.k.a the Herdsman) is a guardian star zodiacally connected to Spica. Mythically, Arcturus is considered the faithful companion and guardian protector of the Goddess (Spica) and also has mythic associations with King Arthur, who leads his people to freedom and victory with the sword of truth, the sword of divine authority and kingship, also known as Excalibur (the sword in the stone).

Another mythic expression of the sword of truth and divine authority comes from JRR Tolkein and The Lord of the Rings. Tolkein describes the sword or blade that was broken symbolizing a loss of connection to the divine authority we each carry. The sword in The Lord of Rings was called Narsil and the blade was broken in the original battle with the evil Sauron. The broken sword was used to cut the ring of power (Sauron used to have power over others) from the finger of Sauron.

The verse below is an invocation intended to remind us of the power of renewal that is possible when we reclaim the truth, the divine heritage, the royalty of who we are with the intent to balance the light and the dark, to balance the scales of justice. The Solar Eclipse on September 12 is reminiscent of the Light from the Shadows that heralds the crowning of the King.

September 17, Thursday. The Sun enters the constellation of the Virgin Priestess as it is currently shown on modern star maps. On September 23 twenty-three to seven well enter the seasonal sign Libra marking the September equinox point we have the balance of day and night. Currently this is located in alignment with the North Galactic pole or a place between the head of the Virgin Priestess and the tail of a Lion. It is interesting to note that the way the constellations are drawn the tale of the lion and that had the priestess overlap each other. In ancient times, It was the movement of the Sun into this area of the sky that activated festivals and ceremonies dedicated to honoring the Divine feminine. Due to procession of the seasonal points, also known as the equinoxes and solstices, the equinoxes are now aligned with the galactic poles. This understanding helps us to realize the difference between the seasonal signs and the constellation of backdrop.

There is often a misunderstanding between these two separate things because they've been named to the same names. For more see the video on the difference between signs and constellations. It seems that a key to changing the understanding of our reality is to gain an understanding of this difference, and then to be able to honor and celebrate how the season shift to the consolation creating an evolutionary process that is never ending.

Mercury (12° Libra 58') stations retrograde at 11:09 am. This is the Still Point of the Mercury cycle as the messenger prepares to retrace the path that has just traveled across the sky. That means Mercury visible in the evening sky is located in the constellation of the Virgin Priestess very low on the western horizon after sunset.

Mercury retrograde in Libra is also deepening the inquiry into the emerging new mysteries of conscious equal partnership with ourselves and others. Mercury is also about communication as well as how we perceive reality. Mercury retrograde is an infamous time for breakdowns in communication, meaning what we think we are saying and what someone else is hearing might be two different things. Taking time to make sure your communication is clear is especially helpful.

September 18, Friday. Saturn reenters Sagittarius at 8:32 pm and then the Moon passes 2.8° N of Saturn at 8:40 pm. This means that Saturn will be traveling through Sagittarius for the next couple of years and the Moon is welcoming Saturn’s return to this part of the sky. Saturn’s journey through Sagittarius is about exploring that the beliefs of what is true or not true for you that are defining your reality.

If your current beliefs are limiting your ability to co-create the structures that support the manifestation of your true heart’s desire, then Saturn’s passage through Sagittarius is the perfect time to consider what you are ready to dismantle, and what new beliefs you are building within you so that your life reflects what is really true for you.

September 19, Saturday. The Moon of passes 9.5° North of Antares and will be visible beyond Antares tonight. Once each month the Moon passes by the heart star of the Scorpion transmitting the light codes from this Royal Star.

This is a good time for tuning into the wisdom of your heart, the part of you that knows the answers to all your questions. When we take time to listen to the wisdom of our heart we are always guided in ways that support the fulfillment of our true destiny.

September 20, Sunday. Venus (19° Leo 48') is reaching greatest magnitude in her Morning Star appearance at -4.5. This means Venus is shining ever so brightly in the morning sky. Venus passed through the first gate into the underworld on September 10, giving up her crown - symbolizing the release of any distortions connected with her crown chakra. This begins the process of letting go of her old identity that keeps her from shining brightly in the truth of who she is.
September 21, Monday. The Sagittarius First-Quarter Moon (28° Sagittarius 04′) is exactly at 1:59 am with the Galactic Center and near the Galactic Cross. This Moon phase is a time for decisive action. When in Sagittarius this is about taking action that helps further your own personal quest for meaning.

The Moon moves into Capricorn at 5:33 am still in the first quarter phase suggesting that this is also a time for taking action that helps to get you organized. It is a great time to implement a well thought out plan of action.

To understand why the Moon is in the Archer when it is in the seasonal sign of Capricorn, see this 15 minute Video about the difference between seasonal signs and the starry backdrop known as the constellations.

September 22, Tuesday. The waxing Moon passes Pluto at 5:04 am as we enter the three day equinox window that is the exact tomorrow. This is the time for noticing any fears that may be holding you back from taking action that will empower your life. If you have successfully faced your fears this will be a time for feeling more empowered and supported.

Venus (19 Leo 15) is trine retrograde Uranus (19 Aries 15) at 9 pm. This marks the third time Venus has been trine Uranus due to the Venus retrograde. The first time this happened was at the end of June, The second time was around 19 August. Whatever shifts in awareness Uranus has been facilitating for Venus now exploring new expressions as the divine sovereignty Queen may be more evident now. These shifts are intended just support the evolution and growth of the Divine Feminine returning to her strength and power through the mysteries of radical self-love.

September 23, Wednesday. The Sun enters Libra at 1:21 am marking in the exact Equinox point. The Equinoxes are the seasonal time of balance and harmony when the days and nights are equal in length. During the Equinoxes, the Earth’s auric or magnetic field is affected by the Sun’s alignment with the Earth’s equator.

Twice each year, at the Equinoxes, the Sun rises and sets exactly over the equator, tracking exactly due East and due West, no matter where you are on the Planet.

Doorways or thresholds into the mysteries are more easily accessed during Equinoxes, especially when we consciously engage this Timing. Equinoxes are a powerful time for doing ceremonial activations at sacred sites or anywhere you happen to be.

The Zero Libra point marking the Autumnal Equinox is currently aligned with the North Galactic Pole lying 90 degrees north of the Galactic Plane in the constellation of Coma Berenices. It is only for one time period in 26,000 years (about 144 years) that the Sun rises in this area of the sky at the September Equinox.

Astronomers consider the North Galactic Pole to be one of the best for studying other galaxies, because the conditions here are favorable for seeing beyond our galaxy. When the Solar Gates (in this case Equinoxes) align with... the galactic poles an intergalactic doorway is opened. This Timing allows for easier access to the intergalactic energy codes coming in through the doorway of the Sun. We can maximize this Timing by choosing to anchor the incoming light codes of love that are intended to assist us and the Earth in the ascension process. See Celebrating the Equinoxes for more details including the story about Berenice’s Hair.

The Moon enters Aquarius at 10:51 am transmitting the mysteries of multi-dimensional realities that extend beyond the limits of our 3rd-dimensional space/time experience. The Aquarian mysteries are best experienced in a state of pure awareness beyond the dimensions of time and space, in a place of Timelessness where thoughts become an instant reality.

This has sometimes been called the 5th dimension or the dimension beyond time. Time exists in what Einstein referred to as the 4th dimension. Anytime we are using telepathy, meditation, or anything that takes us beyond rational reality we are tapping into the 5th dimension and moving beyond the confines of Time. As we develop greater telepathic or psychic ability our relationship to Time changes and eventually ceases to exist in the ways we have known it.

In this eclipse window completing on September 28 with Mercury Retrograde we are already in a time out of time kind of experience, so now is the perfect Time to tune in and connect through awareness to the places that exist outside of time as we know it.

The Sun (0° Libra 25’) is sextile Saturn (0° Sagittarius 25’) at 11:36 am. When the Sun is sextile any outer planet it has either station to direct or is about to station retrograde. In this case Saturn Station direct on August 1 or 2 depending on your Time Zone. Saturn is receiving an energetic boost from the Sun illuminating the mysteries of conscious equal partnership and how that helps to serve the quest for divine truth and deeper meaning, especially as it relates too how we relate to one another.

September 24, Thursday. The Sun is conjunct the North Node (01° Libra 01’) at 2:05 am. This has to do with an illumination of humanities destiny in the realm of conscious equal partnership. The collective reality over the last few thousand years has been connected to a belief in hierarchy as a way to structure society.

This belief eventually replaced the truth that we are all equal and no one is more important or less important than anyone else. Rather each and every individual is this important as every other individual and we are all entitled to equal rights.

The basis of the US Declaration of Independence was brought forth from this nearly forgotten truth. It seems the consciousness of the planet has not been able to sustain the truth of those original statements.

We are reaching a time when the destiny of humanity is again not only remembering this truth but in the process of creating relationships that honor and value this truth. It has yet to take hold in the greater reality but is now being seeded into the collective consciousness. Today is a time for amplifying these seeds.
Retrograde Mercury (13° Libra) is square Pluto (13° Capricorn) at 3:32 pm as Pluto (12° Capricorn 58') stations direct at 11:55 pm for the second time this month due to Mercury’s retrograde. (See Sep 9) This is energizing the further dismantling of the old forms of hierarchy. As this dismantling process takes place a lot of chaos and confusion is being seen in the world.

It is a messy process that can bring up a lot of fear for those who are losing their positions of power. However in order to live in a sustainable reality that honors the generations that have come before, and supports the generations yet to come, the death of the old hierarchical institutions and beliefs must occur. In order for there to be a new birth, the old must die.

Mars enters Virgo at 7:18 pm. The sacred masculine has been journeying and the archetypal round of Libra since April 2014. In May 2016 a new archetypal journey will begin. Meanwhile, Mars is completing the current journey and is now integrating the Virgo mysteries that are about honoring all life is sacred and when in the Libra domain this is also about honoring the equal rights of all life.

September 25, Friday. The Moon enters Pisces at 12:44 pm. This is the perfect time for dreaming into the mystical realms of truth, compassion and love for the next couple of days. The Pisccean realm connects to the mysteries of universal love and compassion in the vast ocean or cosmic sea of life. In some traditions the oceans are thought to carry the wisdom of the Grandmothers, as embodied by the whales and dolphins.

These magnificent sea creatures communicate through sonar and resonating frequencies reminding us that when we work together through intention to activate our intentions and visions through words, chanting, music or other sounds – our entire reality shifts to mirror the images and frequencies we are embodying and expressing.

These invisible energy fields manifest according to the frequencies or resonating patterns of our individual and collective focus. When sounds are played in sand – the sand vibrates into patterns representing the resonating frequencies produce by the sound. Different sounds produce different frequencies thus different sand patterns. This is why the creation story of Genesis begins with the word.

Our thoughts, words and actions produce frequencies that organize the appearance of our reality. Chanting, toning, breathing, and focusing our thoughts and attention on Love, Joy, Harmony, Acceptance, Balance, Prosperity, Peace and Plenty are powerful ways to actively manifest these frequencies into an experiential form. In essence, this is how we not only dream the dream of a new reality, a New Earth, but we bring it into manifest form as well.

Mars (0° Virgo 36') is square Saturn (0° Sagittarius 36') at 6:12 pm. As described yesterday, Mars is engaged in a journey to discover new forms of sacred relationship from a place of equal value and importance. Saturn's job is to support this process by helping to create new supportive forms and ways of operating that are in alignment with this intent.

September 26, Saturday. The Moon passes 3.1° NW of retrograde Neptune (7° Pisces 44') at 1:11 am and catches up to Chiron (18° Pisces 32') at 6:22 pm. This is amplifying the infinite possibilities available to us when we are consciously dreaming into the New Earth and our role within it while also healing anything in the way of manifesting those dreams.
September 27, Sunday. The Moon moves into Aries at 12:29 pm preparing the way for the eclipse later today. When the Moon travels through Aries it is a time to commit to taking decisive action that furthers a specific intent. This might be an intention to actively live a healthier lifestyle, including your intimate relationship experiences. It also includes deepening your commitment to live the life you were born to live.

Aries is about taking action, so if your commitment is to have a healthier lifestyle your action steps would include making healthy choices around food (organic fresh fruits and veggies) that nourish and support your wellbeing, doing a detox program, engaging in daily exercise, commit to daily yoga and breathing practices that help you connect with your core essence, spending more time in nature and so on.

The Total Lunar Eclipse Aries Full Moon (4° Aries 40’) is exact at 7:50 pm. The Moon reaches Perigee or is closest to the Earth only .9 of an hour before the Full Moon. Whenever a Full Moon is near Perigee the effect on tides and weather is magnified, as is the effect of Full Moon itself. In this case, it is also greatly magnifying the intensity of this Total Lunar Eclipse Full Moon. (see September Night Sky Highlights in the September Intro)

The Moon passes retrograde Vesta (5° Aries 55’) at 9:48 pm adding to the power of this time with Vesta in her fierce feminine expression protecting the sacred. This includes all life as sacred and the Earth as Sacred. One way to actively participate with the intent of this Timing including the Full Moon Eclipse at perigee is to make an Earth Offering. I like to build rock cairns placing prayers and intentions in the rocks envisioning the wind passing over these rocks carries the prayers and intentions to where ever they are meant to go. (see September 28)

September 28, Monday. Vesta (5° Aries 41’) reaches opposition to the Sun (5° Libra 41’) at 8:27 pm - marking the halfway point of Vesta’s retrograde journey in the Full Moon phase of Vesta’s cycle. In this cycle Vesta is exploring the importance of her sacred mission. It may be that she is needing to commit more fully to the mission she is already a part of, or she’s needing to find a new sacred mission altogether.

The Moon occults retrograde Uranus (19° Aries 03’) at 6:30 pm passing .97° SSW of Uranus for the second time this month and the 15th time in this series of 18. Here is another factor exponentially magnifying the Full Moon Eclipse energy activated yesterday. Whenever offering prayers and setting intentions, it is helpful to ask for a sign in the world of form that your prayers and intentions are being acted on by the universe.

I usually like to ask for a timeframe such as within 24 hours, 48 hours, or three days that a clear sign shows up as confirmation. These are signs that would be out of ordinary context. This is a great time to expect good news this week or a good sign to show up. When we request a sign, expect that the sign will show up, and then except with gratitude what shows up we’re letting the universe know we are working co-creatively.

September 29, Tuesday. The Moon enters Taurus at 11:57 am transmitting the mysteries of sacred pleasure and beauty as a path to enlightenment. I read another version of a mythic story this past month that houses need to wonder if there isn’t some sort of truth to the possibility suggested. Considering that our accepted versions of history are based on the interpretations of those who wrote that history call and may or may not be true, these mystic stories that appear over and over again maybe based and more truth then we have yet to realize?
The story was describing a time before written history when a virus was released here on Earth that got into the DNA of humans to interfere with their ability to receive pleasure. This may be another version or way of describing what happened in the Garden of Eden.

In this version of the story, the beings that created this virus did so for the purpose of accessing life force energy generated from fear and hatred. Disconnecting human beings from their pleasure center through this virus that mutated their DNA made us humans easier to manipulate into feeling fear and hatred. The more fear and negative emotions that are generated the more this kind of life force becomes available to these beings.

The story of what happened in the Garden of Eden does describe how humanity lost the ability to experience sustainable, ecstatic pleasure. It seems in this reality pleasure is fleeting. This has the effect of increasing our desire for more pleasurable gratification - often at any cost.

With the loss of the ability to experience genuine pleasure - all kinds of negative feelings, experiences, and actions result releasing vast amounts of negative life force energy.

It is up to us to awaken from this false reality or dream and remember that we have actually never lost this ability. It only appears to us that we have. It is time reclaim the ability to experience genuine Self-love, as well as also caring for each other, and working together to create beauty and sacred pleasure as we recreate the Garden of Earthly Delight Now.

September 30, Wednesday. The Sun is conjunct retrograde Mercury (7° Libra 07’) at 7:38 am. This means Mercury is downloading directly from source whatever is needed for the new Mercury cycle that begins when Mercury stations direct on October 9. This new Mercury cycle will be focused on new ways of perceiving how we engage the relationship with ourselves and each other. A good question to consider is what does a healthy manifestation of vibrant, exciting, co-creative relating look and feel like?
