Change Your Thinking, Change Your Life (Science of Mind)
Change Your Judgments, Change Your Life
Change Your Perspective, Change Your Life
Change Your Conclusions, Change Your Life
Change the Way You Look at Things,
And the Things You Look at Change (Wayne Dyer)

Change is always happening. Radical, Revolutionary change has been in the air ever since the Uranus Pluto Square was activated in 2011. These are the kinds of changes that often take us by surprise, shifting our view of what IS. Change is best facilitated by changing our thinking including our judgments, perspectives and conclusions as all of these factors are what create our reality. What would it take to now change more than we ever thought possible?

I am the Serpent Bearer! (Title of My Oct 14 Dream)

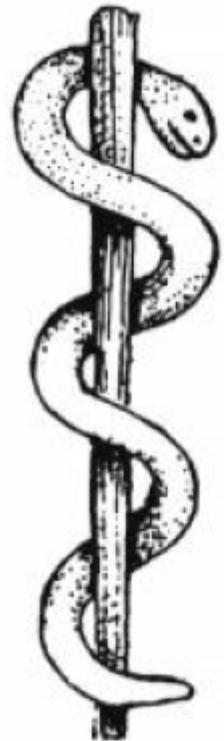

On October 14, 2016 I awoke from a transformative dream. This happened in the Aries Full Moon Window, when the Moon was with Uranus and the Sun was with Spica opposite Uranus.

In the dream I picked up a staff about 4 feet long that was in the shape of a large, very thick rattlesnake. The snake staff however, was light and easy to hold up over my head. I began chanting some words I didn't understand or even know I knew. As I chanted a shaft of bright light began to fill the staff.

I felt like I was conjuring the snake that lived within the staff and I had done this before. Sure enough the snake came alive in my hands. I was startled and not startled at the same time. Part of me was nervous holding a live poisonous snake and another part of me was very calm, with a growing sense that this was high magic.

I somehow knew, or had seen in my mind's eye some other time, this very snake had given me, or someone like me, a drop of snake venom by gently piercing the skin. The snake pierced the skin on the cheek and released only one drop, just the right amount for powerful healing.

Then the snake in my hands brought its head around next to mine and gently pierced the skin on my cheek giving me a drop of its poison. It felt natural and exciting at the same time.

I felt emotionally calm when I woke up. However, physically my body felt an intense electric energy running through me along with a sense of growing aliveness. As I pondered this dream I realize it was a healing gift I had been given.

Feeling of the Dream

I felt immense gratitude and awe at the timing. I haven't remembered very much of my dreams in recent months so I was surprised to have such a crystal clear experience that fit so perfectly with my personal and collective Timing.

Currently I am in a Chiron cycle squaring my Sagittarius Moon. Chiron is often associated with turning poisons into medicine. I have been focused on consciously creating radiant health and healing my whole life but really stepped into a whole new level of commitment to this cause as Pluto transited over my Mars in 2010 and 2011 with eliminating foods that cause inflammation and stepping up taking probiotics.

In November 2011 I added colonics and liver flushes taking the process to another level of empowerment. Since that time I have done 35 Liver Flushes. This year I have added ionic trace minerals to further nourish my body when I realized that I wasn't getting enough of them. Even with all this and notable progress over the last 6 years, I still sometimes feel discouraged that I haven't made more progress.

I have been asking for signs in the world form to help me know I am on the right track. I feel this dream is telling me I am increasing my strength in transmuting poisons. The healing venom seems to be saying I have the strength to take any remaining poison within me and turn it all into my medicine. This is the intent of the Shamanic Chironic Healing Journey - to transform the poisons into a homeopathic remedy or elixir.

More about the Astrological Initiation Cycles Happening for Me Now That Relates to this Dream

Saturn (still near Antares) is traveling through the Scorpion and passing below the Serpent Bearer also known as Ophiuchus (see article about the Serpent Bearer). My Natal North Node (representing personal destiny and within two degrees of Antares) is located here and my Sagittarius Moon is zodiacally aligned with the fixed star known as Rasalhague the Crown Chakra of Ophiuchus.

I have long been aware of dream diagnosis used in Ancient Greece. In the Healing Temples of Aesculapius (a.k.a Ophiuchus) - built near healing springs throughout Greece - patients were placed in special dream incubation chambers. The patient's dreams helped to determine the healing protocols that would be most supportive.

The head of the Serpent-Bearer in the Sky where the star Ras Alhague is located - is said to be filled with powerful, ageless healing wisdom that has the potential to restore and revitalize. The Sun passes through this part of the sky each December. In 2017 Saturn will be transiting here. This suggests a time when it is extra beneficial to pay attention to your dreams and to ask for dream messages that will guide you toward your next steps.

With Chiron square my Sagittarius Moon and my natal Moon aligned with the Ras Alhague, this dream is an affirmation of my own healing journey. Plus, Venus at the time of this dream Venus was at the third gate, the Solar Plexus Chakra, on her ascent from the Underworld. In the Venus Third Chakra Teleclass we looked at Dragon Energy, and Dragon Lines representing the Ley Lines of the Earth where the energy meridians are most potent. Serpents (Dragons) and Snakes represent fertility and creative life force. A snake shedding its skin represents rebirth, transformation, renewal and healing.

Here are just a couple of sentences of what was shared in that ceremonial third chakra class.

As we claim our power at the Solar Plexus Chakra we are invited to engage Dragon Medicine within our bodies as Dragon energy is now re-awakening on Earth. Padma Aon Prakash says, Shakti is Dragon energy and the re-emergence of the Divine Feminine corresponds to the awakening of the Dragon remembrance or awareness of this essential life force energy. Dragon medicine, Dragon Energy anchors our light bodies to the Earth so that we are fully sourced in life force through our connection to the "Dragon Lines, or Ley Lines," that are the meridians and chakras found on the body of Gaia.

The Western Diamondbacks at Faywood

As I woke up from this dream and began working with it, I remembered the unusual sightings of two western diamondback rattlesnakes we saw at Faywood Hot Springs, New Mexico during our September Equinox Event. After our ceremony, in the Standing Stone Circle up on the Hill the first night, we went to soak in the healing waters.

I had the key to private pool, so I unlocked the gate to and walked in. Unknowingly, I passed within inches of a large rattlesnake. The other women with me gasped when they saw the snake and were amazed that the snake didn't move as I walked past. I didn't even see it until I had passed it.

Two women decided to walk past the snake as well. Another woman was more cautious. She decided to go to the office and get someone to remove the snake. The owner came and chopped off the snake's head and the rattles – nine rattles in all. It was definitely an older snake probably about 4 feet long. Although I had no control over what happened, I felt bad that the snake was killed because I usually protect rattlesnakes from being killed. (Lots of Great Stories for another time)

I once was afraid of snakes – especially rattlesnakes, but now I know them as animal allies. I remain respectful and cautious, while also not wanting them to be harmed. Of all the species of rattlesnakes the western diamondback is the most gentle, the least aggressive. They're large and thick bodied just like the snake in my dream.

Interestingly, the next night at Faywood we encountered another western diamondback rattlesnake on our way to pools. This one was stretched across the road and looked exactly like the snake from the night before. It also looked like the one in the picture here.

I am happy that the second snake disappeared before it could be killed. It might have been the mate to the other snake because it was only about 5 feet away from where the other snake was killed the previous night. Of course, my fantasy is that it was the same snake mysteriously come back to life much like the story of Asclepius who learned how to bring the dead back to life by watching a snake bring her mate back to life. Snake as a Medicine Animal

Snake (especially rattlesnake) is a symbol of transformation and wisdom expressed through healing. She is a protector and guardian along with her sister totems, the Dragon and the Serpent.

Snakes symbolize awakening creative forces and increased intuition. Snakes represent wholeness, cosmic consciousness, and the ability to experience anything willingly with acceptance. Snakes remind us that all things are equal in creation and it is time to grow transitioning into embracing new opportunities and/or changes.

Snake is connected to fire medicine, or the medicine of transmutation and alchemy. Physically snakes represent vitality, life force, kundalini. Emotionally they represent our dreams. Mentally they represent intellect and power, and spiritually they represent wisdom, understanding and wholeness.

Snake magic is connected to the Magician, transmuting energy and embracing the alchemy of fire. The kundalini, life force within us all connects to serpent or snake medicine. So questions to ponder, might be:

Are you afraid of your own life force and power?

Are you embracing your life force energy and expressing it in ways that are healing for you and those around you?

What would it take to express your own kundalini energy at the next higher octave for you?

November Sky

Venus is reaching its brightest appearance in the southwest sky after sunset, setting about two hours after the Sun as November begins and about three hours after the Sun by the end of the month. Venus appears about 16° above the horizon for those in mid northern latitudes and about 22° above the horizon as November progresses. Plus, Venus is brightening from -4.0 magnitude to a -4.2 magnitude during November. Venus is visible to the left of Antares and Saturn as November begins, continuing her journey through the constellation of the Scorpion into the Archer.

On November 17 Venus is about a half a degree from third magnitude star Lambda Sagittarii also named Kaus Borealis, marking the top of the Archer's bow. The Moon passes Venus approaching on the night of November 1 fairly close on the night of November 2 and beyond

Venus the night of November 3. This marks the Fourth Chakra Gate or Heart Chakra as described in the story of Inanna rising from the underworld. <http://venusalchemy.com/leo-evening-star-class/>

Saturn is easily visible to the right of Venus as November begins and then disappears into the sunset glow later in the month. Saturn is now shining at +0.5 magnitude visible about 30 minutes after sunset. Saturn sets about two hours after the Sun as November begins and only a half hour after the Sun as we move to the end of the month. By November 23 it will be difficult to see Saturn as it passes 3.5° North of the much brighter Mercury. You might be able to see both through binoculars 15 to 20 minutes after sunset. Both Mercury and Saturn are about 27° to the lower right of Venus.

Mercury is emerging into the evening sky this month shining at about -0.5 magnitude when it meets with Saturn on November 23 continuing to shine at this magnitude for the next three weeks edging higher into the evening sky.

Mars dims from a +0.4 to +0.6 this month as it sinks lower toward the western horizon moving from the constellation of the Archer to the Goatfish.

Jupiter is the only planet visible before sunrise appearing higher in the ESE sky each week. As November begins in Jupiter rises about 2.5 hours before the Sun and will begin rising around 2:30 am by the end of the month. On November 1 Jupiter is about 20° above the horizon and by November 30 thirtieth it's about 30° above the horizon. Jupiter begins the month at -1.7 to -1.8 magnitude. Jupiter is moving toward the star Spica in the constellation of the Virgin Priestess beginning the month about 13° from Spica and ending the month about 8° from Spica.

The New Crescent Moon is well to the right of Venus and Saturn on November 1 and is about 3° above Saturn on November 2. The waxing crescent Moon is to the upper right of Mars on November 5 and farther upper left of Mars on November 6.

On November 14 around 3:30 am Pacific Time the Moon is reaching its closest perigee to Earth it will be between 1946 to 2020 as it reaches the exact Full Moon in Taurus later that morning. See EarthSky Article This means that a very big Moon is rising on the night of the 13th and 14th. The Moon moves to the Hyades on November 15 occulting Aldebaran in the continuing series of occultations that lasts until September 2018.

The Last Quarter Moon hangs just below Regulus on the morning of November 21. The waning Crescent is to the upper right of Jupiter at dawn on November 24. On November 25 the slender Crescent Moon forms a fairly large triangle of about 9° tall with Jupiter and Spica.

The Leonids Meteor Shower

The Leonids is not great as it is impacted by the Moon when this meteor shower is peeking just before dawn on November 17. The sky glow from the waning Gibbous Moon will hide all but the brightest meteors. On November 21 the Last Quarter Moon is 2° below Regulus.

November 1 is All Saints Day, a Roman Catholic observance honoring their Saints who reside in Heaven. Also in the Catholic tradition Nov 2 is All Souls Day reminding souls here to live a holy life and to pray for the souls lost in purgatory. In more ancient traditions Nov 2 honors the Dead. In Mexico and many parts of the Western United States, the celebration of Dia de los Muertos (Day of the Dead) dates back at least 3,000 years and has even survived the Spanish Conquistadors attempts over 500 years ago to eradicate this tradition.

Many other cultural traditions have also used this seasonal timing, when the plants are dying and preparing their seeds for rebirth, to honor and remember the ancestors, those who have died recently, and all who have come before. It is a time for celebrating and recognizing the cycle of death as an important part of the cycle of life.

All Souls Day Ceremony in Tucson, AZ

The ancient Celts celebrated this cross-quarter time as their New Year's point called Samhain usually on the New or Full Moon closest to the astrological cross-quarter currently happening on Nov 7. The Samhain cross-quarter is when the veils between all the worlds, especially the world of the living and the world of the dead, are thinnest. The Celts believed this timing was most powerful for looking into the future and for accessing other worlds more easily.

This was (and is) a time to go within and seek guidance from the ancestors for the coming year. This was celebrated as a night of High Magic for those attuned to the mysteries, celebrating death and rebirth, endings and beginnings, and that which is yet to come. It was also believed that this timing when worked with consciously helped to set the pattern for the coming year.

Daily November Celestial Timings

All times are Mountain Standard Time unless otherwise noted

November 01, Tuesday. All Saints Day. The Moon enters Sagittarius at 7:43 am illuminating the quest for deep and meaningful truth that helps us to navigate what is next.

The Sun (09°Scorpio 20') is trine retrograde Neptune (09°Pisces 20') at 1:17 am signaling the station direct of Neptune on November 19.

November 02, Wednesday. All Soul's Day. The Moon passes Antares before catching up to Saturn (14°Sagittarius 35') for the first time this month at 1:09 pm. The second time will be November 30. (12°Sagittarius 01') at 1:44 am.

The Moon near Antares is amplifying the light codes or frequencies near the Galactic Core. Visually connecting with the Moon and Antares is one way to tune into these energies. Journeying and or meditating is also recommended if you cannot visually connect with them.

November 03, Thursday. The Moon passes Venus (19°Sagittarius 14') at 10:32 pm marking the 4th Gate Heart Chakra return of the Goddess, reclaiming the wisdom of her heart. The Moon enters Capricorn visible on the Galactic Cross near Galactic Center at 8:05 pm.

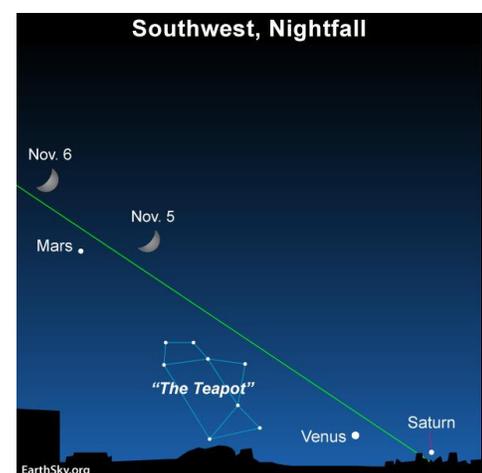

November 04, Friday. Venus (21°Sagittarius 00') is square Chiron (21°Pisces 00') at 9:38 am creating a focus on the Shamanic Healing that Chiron provides to the Sacred Feminine in her ascent journey. (See Intro)

November 05, Saturday. The waxing crescent Moon catches up to Pluto (15°Capricorn 19') at 2:25 am illuminating the shadow or places we have judged and denied within ourselves. If you are judging another you are judging yourself. If you have conclusions about others those same conclusions apply to you. This is similar to the idea "you spot, you got it." So now is a good time to assess what your perspective is, what your judgments are and what conclusions you have reached as a result and re-examine them. Are they limiting you? Are they serving you? Do you feel free to create the life your heart truly desires? (see intro image)

November 06, Sunday. The waxing crescent Moon catches up to Mars (27°Capricorn 56') at 2:56 am before entering Aquarius at 6:55 am. What revolutionary ideas can help further expand consciousness and awareness where we are living in connection to the Divine Plan for our lives?

The Actual cross-quarter when the Sun reaches 15 Scorpio later today within this three day window. The Celts worked with this cross-quarter as a time for divination, as they recognized this seasonal cycle as a time when the veil between the worlds is thinnest.

The thinning of the veil was thought to assist a person in looking into the future more easily, and if used wisely, this time could help consciously set the pattern for the coming year. This was (and is) a time (over the next few days) to go within and seek guidance from the ancestors.

November 07, Monday. Today or late last night the Sun has aligned with Zubenelgenubi (15 Scorpio 10). This means the Sun is rising with this star at the Cross- quarter of Samhain a “between the worlds” time. A time to embrace information, insights and feelings that are coming from beyond this reality.

Sun (15°Scorpio 22') is sextile Pluto (15°Capricorn 22') at 1:25 am signaling that Pluto is picking up speed in its forward movement. That means if we have done our shadow work and integrated it into our lives we are ready to move forward fully empowered to live our soul’s purpose.

November 08, Tuesday. The Moon enters Pisces at 2:45 pm suggesting our dreaming both while asleep and awake has helpful healing information for us. (see intro)

Mars enters Aquarius at 10:51 pm inquiring about how to incorporate the egalitarian ideals that serve the emerging awareness of equality for all people. Equality does not mean the same but it does mean that what each brings is equally valued.

November 09, Wednesday. The Moon passes Neptune (09°Pisces 16') at 7:14 am and then the South Node (10°Pisces 14') 5:05 am. What are the visions and dreams of our past that are still a part of our future destiny and how can we access them from a place beyond rationality and reason so they become possible once again?

November 10, Thursday. The Moon catches up to Chiron (20°Pisces 52') at 3:20 am and enters Aries at 6:44 pm. This is a time for deep healing and to commit to the cause you feel is worthy and take action.

November 11, Friday. 11:11. The Sun passes in zodiacal alignment to Zubenelshamali (19°Scorpio 36') at 6:40 am one of the primary stars of the Scales weighing the balance between the reality of our hearts and the reality of the cosmic truth that exists beyond what we think we know is true.

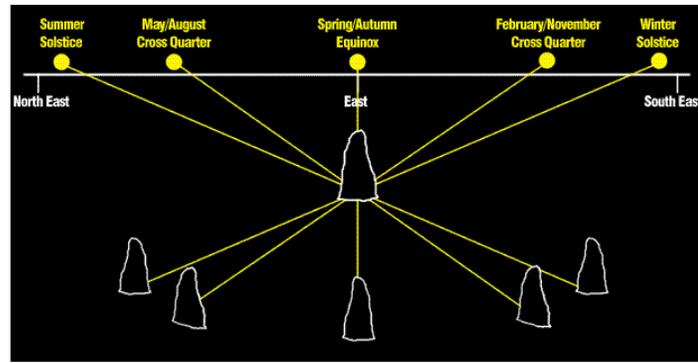

Venus enters Capricorn at 9:54 pm. Tonight Venus is visible crossing over the place where the December Solstice Sun rises on the Galactic Cross or the intersection of the plane of our Milky Way Galaxy and the plane of our Solar System, a.k.a. the ecliptic, or the path the planets travel. The zero Capricorn intersection is near Galactic Center or Hunab Ku as described by the Mayans.

Hunab Ku is considered the source of conscious energy that manifests the rhythm and form of our universe. For one time period in 26,000 years the December Solstice aligns near Galactic Center energizing ancient/future forgotten knowledge within the DNA (or Hunab Ku) of our own genetic structure. Venus is receiving a direct download from Hunab Ku and the Galactic Core. (see Nov 1 star map)

November 12, Saturday. The Moon catches up to Uranus (21°Aries 26' R) at 5:45 am before entering Taurus at 7:24 pm. Also today Mercury enters Sagittarius at 7:39 pm.

And the Sun (20°Scorpio 50') trines retrograde Chiron (20°Pisces 50') the station direct of Chiron on December 1. This begins the time of the Still Point of Chiron in the oceanic realms of Pisces and the field of all possibilities. The Still Point connects to the unified field of Creation. Pisces as the symbol of the ocean is a vast realm of potential and mystery. When we remember that biological life spontaneously formed and evolved in the oceans of the Earth we can see how powerful this Timing is in terms of connecting with Source as Creative Intelligence.

The Pisces archetype is so adaptable it has been described as being like a chameleon. There are scientific studies that reveal significant DNA changes or adaptations occurring in animals within just one generation. When we consider that DNA lives in a fluid environment it is not surprising that it can evolve much quicker than science first believed.

This is worth contemplating as Chiron accesses the field of all possibilities within this Still Point time. This is a powerful time for shape shifting our reality in ways that produce profound shamanic healing of our personal and collective emotional heart. The possibilities for radical healing of old wounds is heightened especially for those with planets, angles or nodes between 20 and 25 degrees of Pisces.

November 13, Sunday. Pluto and Uranus are still within 5 to 6 degrees this month and within 10 degrees into 2018. This month Venus is with Pluto and comes close to an exact opposition with Uranus, while Jupiter squares expanding the Pluto effect. Clearly we have been experiencing the Uranus and Pluto effect in the current USA elections where the shadow is continually being revealed on both sides.

Uranus is the great awakener and Pluto is the great transformer working to dismantle all the old forms that are not working especially as they relate to government, economics, and our collective reality.

Uranus Pluto reminds us that the more we think we are in control of all our outcomes the more intense and beyond our control the events of our lives become to create a shift in awareness and how we live our lives.

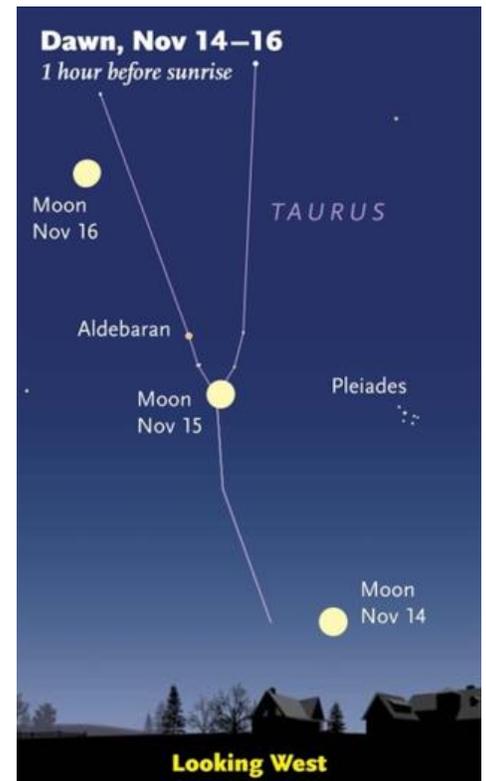

November 14, Monday. The Moon enters Gemini at 6:22 pm suggesting this is a fun time to socialize and have fun. Gemini loves to remind us not to take ourselves too seriously.

November 15, Tuesday. The Moon occults Aldebaran (10°Gemini 02)'at 10:06 am in this series of 49 occultations that lasts until September of 2018 . Aldebaran, also known as the eye of the Bull, is the key to the Silver Gate where we receive light coded information from beyond our galaxy. This is the time of the year when we can see the Moon with Aldebaran in the late evening sky.

November 16, Wednesday. The Moon enters Cancer at 5:57 pm illuminating the mysteries of living life in ways that are nourishing and supportive to ourselves. Practicing daily self-care, resting when tired, self-nurturing in healthy, gentle, easy ways are in the domain of this Mystery School. Self-care is essential as we continue to navigate deep and vast cellular changes within and around us. We have an opportunity to change the old doing driven paradigm by creating new, fun and easy to implement patterns of health and well being. Embracing and expanding our knowledge and experience of self-care helps facilitate a smoother transition and integration of the new paradigm or golden age of peace and plenty.

November 17, Thursday. Neptune (09°Pisces 15' R) is conjunct the South Node at 3:10 pm. This means we have an opportunity to feel into the past and do one or both of these things. Let go of anything that is not of our original essence and dream more fully into our magical mystical selves!

November 18, Friday. Mercury (09°Sagittarius 15') within less than a degree of the heart star Antares, is square Neptune (09°Pisces 15') at 9:04 am. This means we can change our minds about who we have judged ourselves to be, creating space for living more of who we truly BE!

The Moon enters Leo at 8:14 pm. In the space within our hearts we find guidance on how to truly love ourselves in healthy ways. This isn't talked about much in mainstream places but there has been evidence found over the past couple of decades that suggest many individuals are actually showing new strands in their DNA. These new strands of DNA seem to be linked to surprising telekinetic and telepathic abilities especially in children. You may have heard of the Indigo Children, and more recently the Crystal Children. Hydrating the physical body with water, or liquid light, helps us integrate these profound physical changes.

November 19, Saturday. Neptune (9 Pisces 14) Stations Direct at 9:38 pm accessing the still point where all possibilities exist. Neptune's station direct suggests it is a time for being even more conscious of your choices especially around healthy boundaries that support your ability to connect with unbounded pure consciousness.

It might be helpful to note what is authentically showing up in your life. Sometimes, people come into our lives that appear to be genuine and expressing from an authentic place. Then later we may discover that what we thought was genuine was just an act. Perhaps, we become aware of how we have allowed others to run over our boundaries and make a better choice going forward.

Remember, Neptune is also about illusions and it is easy to believe that what we think we see, feel and experience is real. Awareness is necessary to make changes that are supportive, kind and loving to ourselves and ideally to any others also involved even if it requires being firm.

November 20, Sunday. The Moon is visible approaching Regulus, heart star of the Lion, tonight and will pass Regulus in the early morning hours tomorrow energizing the mysteries of the inner sacred space within our own hearts. What is the heart directed guidance available to you now and always ?

November 21, Monday. The Moon enters Virgo at 2:34 am and catches up to the North Node (09°Virgo 05') at 7:49 pm. What is your sacred function and how is that related to your personal destiny?

The Sun enters Sagittarius at 2:22 pm energizing the quest to synthesize all that has happened in this solar cycle that began at the last December Solstice. A new solar cycle begins when the Sun reaches Zero Capricorn on December 21. This is about being willing to experience the deepest expressions of truth, including the truth of who we really are and how that truth changes our understanding and perception of ourselves and of this reality.

November 22, Tuesday. Mercury (15°Sagittarius 23') is sextile Jupiter (15°Libra 23') at 11:19 am expanding visionary possibilities. Pay attention to what messages are appearing in your world that help to clarify your vision and the actions steps needed now.

November 23, Wednesday. The Moon enters Libra at 12:42 pm energizing the mysteries of collaborative relationships. Mercury catches up to Saturn (16°Sagittarius 54') at 11:44 am. This is a time when we can further bring our ideas into grounded practical form.

November 24, Thursday. Jupiter (15°Libra 47') squares Pluto (15°Capricorn 47') at 4 pm and the Moon is conjunct Jupiter (15°Libra 49') at 8:21 pm. Time to release whatever fears are holding you back? (see November 25)

November 25, Friday. Venus catches up to Pluto (15°Capricorn 48') at 4:50 am and squares Jupiter (15°Libra 53'). Jupiter expands and Pluto's job is to call out the shadow from the depths of our personal and collective fears bringing these fears fully into our conscious awareness and experience, so they can be transformed. When we are willing to engage Pluto's alchemical process – the courage to transform then guides our way. When Venus encounters Pluto she is encountering the shadow parts of herself, what she has denied, repressed or suppressed, usually in order to survive. However this denied part often prevents her from taking total responsibility for her personal experience thus keeping her at the effect of the fear even if it isn't conscious.

Ram Dass suggests one way to embrace your fears is to invite them to tea and ask them to share their wisdom or message with you. When we are willing to face our fears and embrace them rather than trying to get "rid" of them we gain the insights, messages and empowerment our fears ultimately have for us.

The Moon passes Spica (24°Libra 04') this afternoon and will be visible beyond Spica tomorrow morning.

November 26, Saturday. The Moon enters Scorpio at 1:01 am energizing the mysteries of passionate aliveness. What turns you on? What activities are exciting and enlivening for you?

Mercury (20°Sagittarius 41') is square retrograde Chiron (20°Pisces 41') at 1:22 am creating the possibility of healing messages coming through when we are open and listening.

November 27, Sunday. The Moon passes both Zubenelgenubi (15°Scorpio 19') and Zubenelshamali (19°Scorpio 36') this afternoon. (see November 11)

November 28, Monday. The Uranus Pluto Square has now separated to 5 degrees so is still potent especially as Jupiter in Libra comes into square Pluto and oppose Uranus over the next few months further expanding the effect. Read More about HERE

November 29, Tuesday. The Sagittarius New Moon (07°Sagittarius 43') is exact at 5:18 am passing Antares at 09:53 am and then the Moon passes near Saturn at 01:16 am.

Venus (20°Capricorn 55') is square retrograde Uranus (20 Aries 55) creating possibilities for radical shifts in our perception of the Divine Feminine in her power as a sovereign leader.

November 30, Wednesday. The Moon catches up to Saturn (17°Sagittarius 40') at 1:16 pm and then to Mercury (27°Sagittarius 37') at 9:08 pm. The Sun (09°Sagittarius 16') is Square Neptune (09°Pisces 16') at 6:17 pm. The Saturn Neptune square is still in effect and being activated by Mercury and the Sun. The reminder is that this is the time to effectively communicate our visions and dreams in ways that can be practically grounded in this middle world reality. A good place to start is by journaling stream of conscious what is coming up for you now.
