

2022 June Celestial Timings by Cayelin K Castell

I got more done on this month's Timings than in the last few months but ran out of time to edit and add so hope this is inspiring and helpful without too many mistakes for you to overlook.

An ancient "School of Prophets" understood much about the cosmos and used natural time-cycles to mark out the course of history. For them the cosmos seemed somehow much closer and more relevant than it does today.

Among other things they believed that there were specific doorways or gates leading in and out of "heaven". These portals were believed to be located at the points where the ecliptic (the pathway followed by the Sun in its annual progression along the zodiac) crosses over the Milky Way.

Significantly the Sun now sits at one of these gateways at the solstices. By a process of analogy: "As Above, So Below", this indicates that it is now that these "stargates" are opening. Adrian Gilbert

Night Sky and Star Magic

This month the Milky Way lies to the south at night and the constellations the Sun moves through during the winter in the northern hemisphere and summer in the southern hemisphere are easily visible, including the Scorpion, the Archer, the Scales and the Virgin Priestess.

Also prominent this month are seven main stars of the constellation of the Virgin Priestess (a.k.a. Virgo), Vindemiatrix, Zaniah, Porrima, Zavijava, Khambalia, Auva, and Spica.

Zavijava <https://cayelincastell.com/zavijava-in-the-virgin-priestess/>

Zaniah <https://cayelincastell.com/zaniah/>

Spica <https://cayelincastell.com/spica/>

The most visible star in this group is the bright bluish white star Spica, "spike of grain" where the Moon will pass by on June 9. Spica and Arcturus are aligned by sign and degree so planets with Spica are activating the Behenian Star Arcturus... <https://cayelincastell.com/spica-and-arcturus/>

Higher in the sky and a bit to the right of Spica is the star Denebola marking the lion's tail in the constellation also known as Leo. If you follow a direct line from Spica to the upper left you will see the bright red star Arcturus, creating the Spring Triangle and the larger triangle includes Regulus, as shown here.

June 03, Friday. Mercury Stations Direct near the Pleiades and the waxing crescent Moon passes the Beehive Cluster (7 Leo). and is visible just beyond the Beehive after sunset tonight. (see star chart below)

The Beehive Cluster is also known as Praesepe, a Latin word for manger, while astronomers call it M44. It is an open cluster of stars (one of the largest in this area of the sky) located at about 7 degrees into the seasonal sign of Leo and the constellation of the Crab (a.k.a. Cancer but now overlaid by the seasonal sign of Leo).

Under dark skies the Beehive looks like a swarm of stars with more than 40 stars visible to the naked eye generally seen as a cloudy patch of stars. It is interesting to note that the Beehive Cluster was one the first objects that Galileo studied with his telescope - as it covers an area bigger than three Full Moons though not nearly as bright.

Tonight, the Moon will dim many of the stars of this cluster but using the Moon to locate the Beehive is helpful as it will be sitting so close to it tonight.

Above the Beehive is the bright royal star Regulus at the base of what looks like a backward question mark.

Below the Moon are the bright stars Castor and Pollux marking the outer edge of the Sacred Hoop.

Once you know where the Beehive is you can locate it after the Moon leaves this area of the sky over the next couple of nights.

Some of the sky lore of this constellation includes the story of how the crab bit the heel of Hercules during his fight with the Lernean Hydra. In gratitude Juno (enemies with Hercules) then placed the crab in the sky. [Robson*, p.33.]

Learn more about the Zodiacal Constellation and their magical stars HERE.

In ancient times this cluster served to predict the weather; if the Beehive was not crystal clear then it was thought that inclement weather might be on the way. Pliny said, "If Praesaepe is not visible in a clear sky it is a presage of a violent storm". <http://www.constellationsofwords.com/stars/Praesaepe.html>

June 04, Tuesday. The Moon is visible approaching the Heart of the Lion tonight and will be beside Regulus by tomorrow night. Regulus is one of the 15 Magical Behenian Stars of the ancient alchemists. They believed that whenever a planet was within 6 degrees of one of these stars, then the energy of the star was magnified meaning that was the best time to work with ceremonial applications creating amulets, potions and other magical intentions.

The Moon passes by Regulus at least once each month giving us amped up access to the light codes connected to this Royal Heart Star. This is an especially good time for taking heart-centered action. Through our intention and attention we can focus on the Moon and Regulus acting together from the wisdom and strength of the heart.

June 05/06, Sunday. The Moon moves into Virgo (at 11:22 pm Pacific Time on June 5 and in the early morning hours for more eastern time zones) passing by the magical star Regulus. The healing energies of Regulus are most effective when guided by our heart's true desire.

Regulus moved into Virgo for the first time in about 26,000 years at the end of November 2011. The seasonal sign of Virgo (occurring approximately 30 days before the September Equinox) will overlay this star for about 2160 years.

We might be curious about what new teachings or energies are coming from Regulus with a Virgo overlay?

Many religious and spiritual agendas have centered on the complete sacrifice of oneself to be in true service. This agenda has not really served in creating a more enlightened human experience, but rather seems to add to the near constant suffering so many go through.

With Moon and Regulus joined at the first degree of Virgo the transmission coming to the Earth via the Moon in my experience is facilitating healing of the all the distorted patterns we have been furthering as a collective for far too long – providing an opportunity to further restore sacred balance to our personal and collective vibrational field.

Combining this with the wisdom of the heart supports personal and planetary healing here to help guide us through these transformative Times.

June 07, Tuesday. The Virgo First Quarter Moon (16 Virgo 51) is exact at 7:48 am PDT accelerating growth and healing connected to the sacred patterning of life. When intuitively attuned to the sacred pattern - great magic, or what others call luck, happens easily. Alignment with our personal and collective patterning easily aligns us with the manifestation of our true purpose.

Restoring a healthy relationship with the cycles and seasons helps to further activate the magical forces that have the power to positively influence what is happening within and around us. In this accelerated time of the First Quarter Moon - it may be helpful to notice where you are aligned or misaligned and then take steps to realign where needed.

June 08. Wednesday. The Moon enters Libra at 8:23 am crossing the September Equinox point and traveling through this sign until the afternoon of June 10. Moon in Libra is a time when we can learn more about ourselves through our interaction with others and how others mirror to us who we are.

Everyone we encounter reflects to us a part of ourselves. Sometimes we see the reflection is an aspect of ourselves we have a judgment about or don't like. Conversely we may find the other person is reflecting something we truly appreciate and value. It is likely the message for us from another person is in our response to them and our response reflects to us where we are in our process and how we are relating to life.

It is a seeming paradox – but when we accept others are reflecting something of ourselves back to us then we are moving out of a limited ego perspective and into greater possibility of being even more conscious of who we really are. This is why it is often said when we judge others we are actually judging ourselves.

June 09. Thursday. The waxing crescent Moon passes Spica around 4 pm visible near Spica tonight. The Moon passes by Spica every 27.3 days that means the Moon is always in a different phase because it takes 29.5 days for the Moon to return to the same phase. For example, it is about 29.5 days from New Moon to New Moon or Full Moon to Full Moon.

That is why there are usually only 12 Full Moons in a year. About every 3rd year there are 13 Full Moons in one year. However, the Moon will pass Spica 13 times in a year due to the shorter cycle to return to a starting point. That is why both the number 12 and 13 are sacred to the Moon. (see more extensive article on this HERE)

As the Moon passes Spica it is amplifying the light codes coming from this prominent star of the divine feminine marking the hand of the Virgin Priestess. Tuning in to the Moon with Spica is a great way to get a direct download. (see Audios about this HERE)

The Moon moves into Scorpio at 1:41 pm Pacific energizing the mysteries of the Edgewalker, the shaman, the sorceress, or the sorcerer sourcing life force energy and magical possibilities..

Tuning into the Moon in Scorpio is a way to tune into the direct current of life force energy and how that supports our ability to co-create when we are in touch with what we truly feel. For the most part, in our current culture we have been trained to not feel or to have desires as there are many judgments about desires of being what gets us into trouble.

Scorpio knows that desires are not the problem, the problem is when we are attached to how our desires are manifesting. This is a great time to practice accepting what is, even when it doesn't look like what we think we want or desire. When we are truly able to allow what IS to just be what it IS then all resistance is removed and magic can happen, often in ways that are beyond anything expected or anticipated.

June 12, Sunday. The Moon moves into Sagittarius at 3:31 pm. This means the Moon is visible approaching the fixed star Antares tonight passing by this magical star - the key to the Golden Gate - tomorrow depending on your time zone.

Whenever the Moon is in Sagittarius it is transmitting the mysteries of the spiritual quest. This quest is for enlightenment, or expanded states of consciousness, or for the spiritual truth that exists at the heart of creation. Sagittarius is not about arriving at a specific state of consciousness or a specific goal or spiritual truth, it is about the journey. It is about climbing the mountain and gaining the widest possible view and then seeing a higher mountain and knowing that is the next phase of the quest.

June 13, Monday. The Moon is just beyond Antares tonight. According to Bernadette Brady's book on The Fixed Stars, all four of the royal stars (including Regulus, Aldebaran, and Fomalhaut) are linked with their own unique teachings, special powers and successes when we are able to meet their challenges.

Antares challenges us to trust and allow our heart knowing to guide our journey.

Plus, Mercury reenters Gemini at 8:27 am once again going beyond the rules and regulations of our dualistic world transcending the rational mind and arriving at the irrational place of Crazy Wisdom.

Mercury in Gemini's Crazy Wisdom helps guide us through chaotic and illogical times because crazy wisdom is illogical and irrational by its very nature and yet is absolutely brilliant at the same time. That is why it's so crazy and why it is one of the most helpful navigation tools we have.

When we let go of what we think we know from a logical perspective then we tap into knowing that is free from the rules of logic and reason. In a crazy turn of perception surrendering what we think we know from the rational mind, ultimately brings us to the place of intuitively knowing more than we ever knew was possible.

We understand nothing!
If you understand this
You understand everything.
- Paul Mic

June 14, Saturday. The Moon moves into Capricorn passing over the Galactic Cross near Galactic Center at 3:14 pm and will catch up to Pluto on June 16. This means the Moon is on the Galactic Cross near Galactic Center today.

On June 21 the Sun will be on the Galactic Cross near the Galactic Edge or the opposite point in the sky. So the Moon today and the Sun in about a week are activating both Galactic Crosses.

Remember the Galactic Crosses are found in two places where the plane of the Milky Way intersects the Plane of our Solar System. One is near Galactic Center and the other is near the Galactic Edge. (see Intro)

A fun book called The Imbrium Codex by William Oehlstrom describes the Turning of the Ages as a time when we will remember how to manifest at will...

At the heart of Ularian philosophy is the concept that consciousness causes atomic particles to coalesce into physical form. They believed that humanity's ability to learn to operate this mechanism is affected by our solar system's position in the great cycle of our binary orbit. During the golden age humans manifest form at will. During the dark age we find it almost impossible to bend the atomic realm to our will. www.theimbriumcodex.com/theconversation/index.php/the-creative-principle/#more-6

There is more and more scientific evidence that shows how we are affecting our reality whether we are conscious of it or not through our thoughts and feelings. As we increase our technology in this world of form we are becoming more aware of the technology of consciousness that is also associated with this increased understanding.

Scalar energy is now being utilized to treat pathogens by disassembling them with light energy. This is based on the work of Nikola Tesla that is now being brought into current time. As a Star Trek fan, this seems to be a lot like the technology they were using, working at the quantum level. This type of technology will increase as we navigate this Turning of the Ages.

June 16, Thursday. Moon conjuncts Pluto (28 Capricorn 32) at 11:41 am spotlighting Pluto as the shamanic initiator and encouraging us to face our fears, our uncertainties, and our doubts. As we do this we will find we are making quantum leaps in consciousness - becoming even more conscious co-creators in our physical reality.

It is vital that we take this process seriously. Well not too seriously...but seriously enough to realize that a death and rebirth is underway, and we are all affected by it. The old age or timeline is dying and a new age or new timeline is being birthed. This is a process already in motion similar to the caterpillar becoming the butterfly. A transformation that has been occurring for many years now (at least 56 years, though more likely 96 years) with many more years to go (at least 48 more years) when using the 72 year window on either side of the center point that happened in 1998 according to astronomer Jean Meuss.

June 18, Saturday. Venus (25 Taurus) sextiles Neptune (25 Pisces) at 9:06 pm. A sextile is a 60° aspect and always occurs between earth and water signs or fire and air signs. More mainstream forms of astrology consider sextiles easy or beneficial aspects.

However, due to Taurus archetype being committed to experiencing the joy and pleasure of life, Taurus does not easily communicate that well with the Pisces archetype that is an empathic giver committed to universal healing. From the perspective of Pisces, Taurus can seem self-absorbed. From the perspective of Taurus, Pisces can seem overgiving, rarely taking the time to enjoy the pleasure of life.

June 19, Sunday. Happy Father's Day.

June 20, Monday. The Moon is conjunct Neptune (25 Pisces 25) at 12:21 pm further illuminating the mysteries of compassion and acceptance. The archetypal mysteries of Pisces and Neptune also are about mystical union with the divine. Of all the archetypes Pisces and Neptune are the most focused on connecting with our dreams, our purpose, our passion and reason for being, through our dreaming, our faith in the dream and through the power of love.

"Do not worry about living your dream. End the habit of imposing a goal on your life. What we achieve is less important than how we live. Life is a play, not a race. Our goals express mostly our fear about what life will fail to provide.

Love is the source of all worthy dreams and the power to live them. So, let faith connect you to your body's original and only intent and let your dreams emerge from there.

As you surrender to the passion of love, you will find anything is possible and all good things inevitable." ~ Relentless Love by Edwin Carl Smith

The Pisces Last Quarter Moon (29 Pisces 46) is exact at 8:11 pm and then enters Aries at 8:37 pm. This last quarter Moon asks the question; “How can I help and heal myself and those around me”?

The Last Quarter Moon phase in Pisces is a time to listen deeply to the inner knowing that helps to answer how we can help and heal ourselves and thus the planet. This is a great time to put any answers coming through into action.

Then the Moon enters Aries at 8:37 pm and catches up to Jupiter and Chiron. This is a great time to commit to restoring cosmic justice through the Power of Love, the Power of Kindness, and the Power of Forgiving the Unforgivable etc.

This is not about human justice, your perspective on justice, or the powers that shouldn't be's sense of Justice. This is Cosmic, Universal, Divine Justice. <https://cayelincastell.com/chiron-in-aries-healing-the-wounds-of-injustice/>

June 21, Tuesday. The Sun enters Cancer signaling the exact June solstice point at 3:51 am. Up until 1975 the solstice fell on either June 22 or June 21 and now primarily falls on June 21. In 2012 and 2021 the June Solstice was on June 20.

This speaks to the extremely slow drift of the seasonal markers through our Gregorian Calendar, a calendar that is not set to any significant seasonal points but rather arbitrarily starts on January 1.

The Summer Solstice for those in the Northern Hemisphere (Winter Solstice in the Southern Hemisphere) is the seasonal marker for those north of the equator signaling a time when the abundance of life is at its fullest expression, the most amount of light in a day is available in this part of the yearly cycle. The opposite is true in the Southern Hemisphere.

The Solstice and Equinox points form the four gates or four directions of the celestial medicine wheel. These gates are activated by the Sun in a rhythmic seasonal cycle and the Solstice gates are currently aligned along the Galactic Axis. More on the June Solstice <https://cayelincastell.com/june-solstice-magic/> and a June Solstice video <https://youtu.be/ed2Yaofp4yg>

Witnessing a Solstice sunrise or sunset is a fabulous way to engage the powerful energies beaming in now from the Galactic Edge from beyond our galaxy via the Sun. (Find out when the Sun rises and sets in your area HERE).

The Moon enters Taurus at 8:03 pm transmitting the mysteries of pleasure, beauty, and how to truly enjoy this life. On this solstice day, the lunar energies are encouraging us to celebrate this solar gate way by slowing down, literally taking time to smell the roses, or enjoy nature in some other way, while also savoring and deepening connections with family and other loved ones.

June 22, Wednesday. Venus has returned to Pleiades a Behenian Star group.

The Pleiades are within 4° of the ecliptic so this is a star cluster that can be occulted of by the Moon. The next series of Moon occultations of the Pleiades begin in 2023.

In 2012 and 2020 Venus was visible inside this cluster. It was remarkable to see. It will be 2028 before that happens again.

Many cultures have viewed the Pleiades as important to their seasonal calendar, beginning their new year with the rise of the Pleiades either before the Sun or after the Sun.

The heliacal rise of the Pleiades in times past let sailors know that the oceans were open for safe passage and it let farmers know what time it was in the farming season. The heliacal rise of the Pleiades is now happening in June.

This means that the Pleiades are now a morning star cluster and that is why Venus in her morning star appearance is with the Pleiades also in their morning star appearance.

Alfred Lord Tennyson a 19th century poet described the rising of the Pleiades in these lines

Many a night I saw the Pleiades, rising thro' the mellow shade,
Glittering like a swarm of fireflies tangled in a silver braid.

It turns out that telescopes can now see this cluster of stars actually has somewhere around 400 stars in a complex nebulae of dust and gas much like the description Tennyson gave us.

Some years ago, I shared in the Celestial Timings about the Nebra Sky Disk discovered in 1999. <https://cayelincastell.com/pleiades-and-the-nebra-sky-disc/>

It is considered one of the most important archaeological finds that depicts the Pleiades and the path of the Sun and the Moon especially as it's related to the Pleiades.

This artifact dating to at least 1600 BCE was found near Nebra, Saxony-Anhalt in Germany. The Nebra Sky Disk is 30 cm (almost 12 inches) in diameter and is a bronze blue green with gold symbols.

The symbols include the Pleiades star cluster between the Sun and Lunar Crescent suggesting this disk was a time gauge oriented to the rising and setting of the Pleiades alerting the creators of the disk, thought to be an agricultural society, when the weather would change.

There are aspects of the disk that are also oriented to the seasonal cycles of the Sun. The disk is tracking Solstices at 82 degrees North Latitude exactly where the disk was found. This is a great 10 minute YouTube about the disk.

June 24, Tuesday. St. John's day also celebrated as Midsummer honors and celebrates the birth of John the Baptist and the Summer Solstice. In ancient times it was actually the eve of June 24 or the night of June 23 when the bonfires were lit and the celebrations began. St. John's Day is the most important day of the year to the Free Masons, Knight's Templars and in Quebec – a time adopted from the Druids.

The case is, that the day called St. John's day, is the 24th of June, and is what is called Midsummer-day. The Sun is then arrived at the summer solstice; and, with respect to his meridional altitude, or height at high noon, appears for some days to be of the same height.

The astronomical longest day, like the shortest day, is not every year, on account of leap year, on the same numerical day, and therefore the 24th of June is always taken for Midsummer-day; and it is in honor of the sun, which has then arrived at his greatest height in our hemisphere, and not anything with respect to St. John, that this annual festival of the Masons, taken from the Druids, is celebrated on Midsummer-day.

June 26, Sunday. The Moon and Venus are conjunct between the Pleiades and Aldebaran illuminating the mysteries of the mind and the doorway to the silver gate or the place in the sky where souls enter this reality. This also represents the sacral Chakra Gate. Stay tuned for more insights on this...

It is not possible to fully understand what is happening with a middle world consciousness that operates only from logic and reason. These are illogical times - actually assisting us in getting beyond the limits and illusions of logic. That means whatever we logically think we know from a middle world consciousness is most likely an illusion and not that real at all.

There is no greater mystery than this... that we keep seeking reality though, in fact, we are reality. ~ Ramana Maharishi

"Religion is regarded by the common people as true, by the wise as false, and by rulers as useful." ~ Seneca the Younger

Gemini reminds us to take a leap of faith, and jump empty handed into the void beyond all logic and reason, trusting that will ultimately create the greatest magic and freedom.

The Moon moves Cancer at 2:06 pm opening the Cancer new Moon window. This is the new Moon closest to the Summer Solstice. (See June 28)

June 28, Tuesday. The Cancer New Moon (7 Cancer 23) is exact at 7:52 pm. Once each year there is a New Moon in Cancer, a time for planting the seeds and visions of how to do home and family in ever evolving, ever growing, ever more nurturing and ever more supportive ways. This is a great time to consider the one action you can take that really supports and nurtures you personally.

This is also a time to consider an action you can take that is designed to nurture your relationship with your beloved others. That might be family members; or it might be those in your spiritual community; or it might be those in the town or community you live in, or some other way that you can reach out to do something kind and caring for someone or some others.

When we extend kindness to others, it is a way of extending kindness to ourselves. Similar to “As Within, So Without”. We may not always like what we experience in our external reality but we always have a choice of how we respond.

Responding with kindness and caring while also initiating action that is kind and caring, especially in the Cancer New Moon, is a way to affect our external reality and that will in turn affect our internal reality.

June 30, Thursday. The Moon is returning to constellation of the Crab entering into the seasonal sign of Leo at 5:40 pm transmitting the mysteries of radical radiant self-love. To truly love another we must first learn how to love ourselves. Truly successful and satisfying personal love originates from a deep well of self-love.

As the quote to the right here suggests all the kinds of love that we can experience are infused with divinity. Self-love is at the top of the list.

The idea of this love coming through the grace of stumbling, the beauty of messing up, through our willingness to love who we are in spite of our imperfection, is profound. Yes, we are “flawed” and at the same time equally “fabulous”.

We are human and divine and we're learning to love it ALL! This learning happens most especially via the messy parts, the challenging, crazy, uncertain parts. Experiencing true personal love in this context inspires the evolution of life.

Dear Human: You've got it all wrong. You didn't come here to master unconditional love. That is where you came from and where you'll return. You came here to learn personal love. Universal love. Messy love. Sweaty love. Crazy love. Broken love. Whole love. Infused with divinity. Lived through the grace of stumbling. Demonstrated through the beauty of... messing up. Often. You didn't come here to be perfect. You already are. You came here to be gorgeously human. Flawed and fabulous. And then to rise again into remembering.
